APPLICATION FOR DEAN'S FUND FOR SCHOLARLY TRAVEL

The Dean's Fund for Scholarly Travel provides grants of up to $600 to currently enrolled doctoral students in year-of-study three through the first year of DCE status who have been invited to give scholarly papers or presentations of their own work at conferences and meetings.

Students may apply once during the year for one or more conference presentations, or they may apply multiple times during the year for more than one conference. In no case, however, will students be awarded more than $600 during one academic year.

Preference in awards will be given to students in the humanities and social sciences and to those in science in engineering in the higher years of study (i.e., G4, G5 and first year of DCE).
